

Tribute to Prof. Thierry A. Freyvogel (1928-2019)

Prof. Thierry Freyvogel, a former director of the formerly called Swiss Tropical Institute, is the initiator of the process that led to creation of the Commission of Research Partnership of the Swiss Academies of Natural Sciences. This commission further led to the formulation of the 11 principles, an ethical code for doing research in partnership.

Thierry Freyvogel's long standing research experience in Africa and his modest attitude and friendliness, combined with his natural authority, significantly helped initiate and lead many conversations, discussions, and exchanges with research partners to specify key ethical principles for equitable and mutually respectful research collaborations.
